this brief edition of a groundbreaking textbook addresses the need for college students to develop critical reading writing and thinking skills for self defense in the contentious arena of american civic rhetoric designed for first year or more advanced composition and critical thinking courses it is one third shorter than the original edition more affordable for students and easier for teachers to cover in a semester or quarter it incorporates up to date new readings and analysis of controversies like the growing inequality of wealth in america and the debates in the 2008 presidential campaign expressed in opposing viewpoints from the political left and right exercises help students understand the ideological positions and rhetorical patterns that underlie such opposing views widely debated issues of whether objectivity is possible and whether there is a liberal or conservative bias in news and entertainment media as well as in education itself are foregrounded as topics for rhetorical analysis reconnecting reading and writing explores the ways in which reading can and should have a strong role in the teaching of writing in college reconnecting reading and writing draws on broad perspectives from history and international work to show how and why reading should be reunited with writing in college and high school classrooms it presents an overview of relevant research on reading and how it can best be used to support and enhance writing instruction how does one help undergraduate students learn quickly how to produce effectively organized persuasive well reasoned essays this book offers a straightforward systematic introduction to some of the key elements of the construction of arguments in essay form the focus here is on practical advice that will prove immediately useful to students recommended procedures are emphasized and detailed examples of academic and student writing are provided throughout the book introduces the basics of argumentation before moving on to the structure and organization of essays planning and outlining the essay writing strong thesis statements organizing coherent paragraphs and writing effective introductions and conclusions are among the subjects discussed a separate section concisely explores issues specific to essays about literary works making arguments reason in context offers a new approach to the teaching of argumentation and debate nearly all argumentation courses and textbooks tilt toward one of two extremes critical thinking informal logic in which the laws of reasoning are universal and not affected by audience or context public speaking in which adaptation to the audience and winning assent trumps logic and reasoning at the first extreme are texts that stress flaws in arguments and how to discern them their focus tends to be on the logic making deductive inferences and avoiding deductive mistakes or other errors of inference and or the recognition of fallacies deficient or fake arguments they also deal with the messy ambiguities of language generally this approach omits the concept of an audience and it does not explain how spotting the flaws in reasoning or improving one's reasoning translates into the ability to make an effective argument further it is not clear how to address audiences whose grasp of logic is shaky at the other extreme are books especially public speaking textbooks that err in the opposite direction they are fixated on audience as a result their advice about how to argue is grounded in audience adaptation in fact the process of reasoning is nearly subordinated to such secondary considerations as style delivery and organization and again the connection between critical thinking logic and audience is rarely examined in making arguments we propose to consider argument at the nexus of invention and judgment the two endpoints from which logic and public speaking examine argumentation respectively by looking at the stuff that comes between an argument's design and its delivery we hope to enrich the understanding and the study of argument as both a theoretical and applied discipline in particular we want to answer some questions that are seldom addressed in print what is the starting point for augmentation when do we even need to argue when should one embrace and when should one avoid arguing why does the same argument work in one place and fail in another are most audiences capable of understanding a complex argument with what authority can one make an argument absent expertise in the field in which the argument takes place are there substantive differences between oral and written argument what does it mean to present an argument can someone control the argumentative situation context to the benefit of his/her position how can argument educate and improve the arguer can we learn the truth by arguing this book addresses the whole advocacy process as a series of concatenated intellectual decisions affecting how arguments are created ordered rendered and produced with judgment as the over arching concern researching online gives students detailed step by step instructions for performing electronic searches for researching with e-mail listservs newsgroups irc and muds and moos and for evaluating electronic sources includes excellent coverage on writing for the free when value packed with any longman english title this edition provides a transformative snapshot of reading comprehension as a field of study at a seminal moment it maintains the same high level of standards with respect to 1 historical perspectives useful for laying the foundation of study on reading comprehension 2 theoretical perspectives that allow the reader to consider different views on how specific areas have evolved since the first edition 3 excellent chapters on various elements of reading comprehension including major research studies in assessment cultural impacts of reading comprehension issues affecting english language learners and consideration of international populations and 4 identification of future research needs to help raise important questions and stimulate possible hypotheses for future research this text advocates bringing the teaching and learning of argument to the centre of the curriculum based on the understanding that argument is essential to the development of thinking skills its scope is broad analyzing the function of argument from early childhood education to university study
